The truth about lies

Even if you select the correct iron and make a good swing, your shot will be more difficult than it needs to be if your lie angle is off.

Struggling with pulls?

When your lie angle is too upright, hooked iron shots happen more often.

Pushing your iron shots?

If your lie angle is too flat, you'll probably lose more iron shots right.

Find your truth

When you're playing with the right lie angle, it becomes easier to make better contact more often. That can only be a good thing for your playing experience.

Three steps to better

If you want to improve your playing experience, here's how we'll get you there.

STEP 1

We want to hear about your game, observe your swing and identify your opportunities.

STEP 2

Then we want to understand your 'WHY'. Why do you play golf? What's most important to you?

STEP 3

Finally, we'll create a personalized improvement plan, highlighting what you can achieve and how to get there as soon as possible.
