From the Club

As the growing season kicks in, so does our spring treatment.

This week has seen the course staff hard at work trying to get the greens ready for summer growth. They are also spraying insecticide and fungicide and also fertilising.

With the warmer temperatures we have also increased the watering program on the tees, fairways and greens.

It's lovely to see the leaves coming back on many of the trees and the fairways are also starting to change color. Roll on summer!

Congratulations Joseph, Tiaan & Cosmos!

We are proud of our Head professional Joseph Phiri who is on the Board of the PGA of South Africa. He attended the PGA's Four Nations Cup last week and presented the Minister of Sports, Arts and Culture, the Honourable Nkosinathi Mthethwa with a Pro-Am medal at the events Opening Ceremony.

In addition to that, two of our past Golf Management Campus students, Cosmos Khumalo and Tiaan Fourie are now fully qualified PGA professionals. They were acknowledged as Class A Professionals at the PGA Awards dinner on Monday evening.

Let us help you play better golf

Adam Lowther continues to help you to Break 90 this month.

This week he tells to that it all starts on the tee box. Pick the club that you know you can play, which will get you to the green in the least amount of shots.

Get the ball flying

Every golf ball reacts uniquely

At the point of contact, across just one inch and 0.0005 of a second, a golf ball interprets face angle, clubhead speed and direction. What happens next is almost predetermined. Except that not all golf balls react the same way.

It's programmed to respond

Each model of golf ball will respond to this moment with its own pre-programmed launch angle, its own spin rate and sidespin rate, its own ball speed. Different models are programmed differently.

You're in charge

The setup of your equipment, the way you're delivering club face to ball, determines what happens next. So does which golf ball you choose to play with.

For all shots and all golfers

The new Srixon Z-STAR offers all the spin you need for more controlled greenside shots. But it's also packing serious speed for more distance off the tee.

Pick a sleeve up in the shop and experience the difference that these balls can make to your game. There are very good reasons we feel so comfortable recommending Z-STAR.

Breaking 90

Staying in play

Previously we talked about building a strategy for each hole back from the centre of the green. How do you get to a place that's within an easy wedge distance (we said 70 metres; but you decide what that is)? And how do you plan to use up to 36 shots over 18 holes, getting to that distance on each hole?

Standing on a tee box with 365 metres to the flag, your 'swing thought' changes with a structured strategy. You're not standing over the tee shot aiming to hit your driver as far as possible.

“On this 365-metre hole, you now have 2 shots to get within an easy wedge distance of the centre of the green. Plan a journey with a club selection that is going to keep you in play. Now your swing thought is all about ‘making a good swing’, not how far you can hit it.”

Turn ‘thought’ into execution

If, without the pressure of hitting the ball as far as possible, your swing still delivers wild and erratic results, then let’s fix that. Let’s provide you with some simple swing mechanics to allow you to keep the ball in play with the longer clubs.
