Let us help you play better golf...

October is Halloween so this month we have asked Adam Lowther to help you out with what might be considered to be the scariest golf shots.

This week he takes you through the dreaded plugged lie in a bunker.

Adam Lowther is an Assistant Teaching Professional at Zwartkop.

Scariest shots in golf

You could reach the green, but...

You've split the fairway on a long par 4 and the green is in sight, albeit a long way away. You know that when you strike your fairway wood well, it has the distance to get you there. But you don't strike it well very often, and just the thought of a fairway wood shot off the deck fills you with fear. So you reach for your #6-iron and lay up instead. Sound familiar? With the right skills, you can turn this moment from a missed opportunity to a scoring chance.

Fairway woods can shorten your journey from tee to green and open up a world of scoring opportunities. But so many golfers neglect their fairway woods because they lack the confidence and consistency to take advantage of them. If you're one of those golfers, let's spend some time together and change that.

No more fairway fear

Put your fairway woods in play more often and enjoy the difference they make to your playing experience and score.

A golfing life

Great social experiences

Research tells us that work pressure, business travel and smartphones are dramatically reducing the amount of time we invest in social interaction.

The same research correlates that decline with the increase in stress, tension and depression.

Play more golf. Make more friends. Take part in more social events. Hitting golf balls with friends who enjoy the moment with you, is living. You should be living.

If you're struggling to find someone to play golf with at a particular time, then get hold of us and we'll make some introductions.

If you're not getting as much enjoyment as you could from the game, you don't have to just grin and bear it. Make an improvement. We can help.

A healthier, happier you

Golf can be a positive force in your life, helping you stay healthy while giving you many enjoyable experiences along the way.
