On the Range

The concrete has been thrown on the range, so things will start to take shape a bit quicker now. There's a little more leveling to get completed on the padel courts side and then that slab will be thrown too.

Clockwise from top left – padel courts being levelled, concrete being poured on the range, last tree cut down for the range and new pathway being prepped for the carts.

Ask yourself the question

“Is my driver stealing distance from me?”

Are you launching your drives with the right launch angle and spin rate for your swing speed? Once we know your swing speed, we can set your driver loft and shaft up to deliver your true distance, so you can fulfill your full potential.

Did you know, increasing your clubhead speed by just 1 mph can add just over 3 metres of distance? With a fitting, we can do this in a matter of minutes.

Challenge us

Faster swings generally require a lower launch angle with less spin while slower swings require a higher launch and slightly more spin to keep the ball airborne for longer.

Which one are you?

Finding out where you lie on the swing speed spectrum is only the beginning. With that information we will tweak your setup to ensure you have the ideal launch conditions for more distance and accuracy off the tee.

Let's find out

ALL YOU NEED TO DO IS SWING

To add distance and power off the tee, you need improved energy transfer at impact. This was a main focus for Srixon when designing their ZX Mk II Drivers; clubs that improve your energy transfer without you having to change your swing.

Greenside glee

Caught in two minds?

We've all been there; on the greenside fairway but still far from the hole. Do we play a delicate wedge shot or a strong and long putt? Both shots involve some risk and lots of skill. But there's a third shot that – if you know how to play it – is easier and more effective.

The bump-and-run

When facing a bare lie or uphill chip around the green, a bump-and-run may be a better option than a lofted shot with a wedge. It's less technically demanding and easier to pull off consistently. But which clubs should you use and when? How much roll out will you get? Come to us for a short-game assessment and we'll help you answer those questions while adding this useful shot to your repertoire.

Learn the bump-and-run

No more greenside confusion

Take the risk and guesswork out of those tricky shots around the green with a simple and effective bump-and-run technique.
