The game of a lifetime

Get them started while it's easy

Golf is a skill that can be learned throughout life, but it comes especially easily to children. Getting your child into the game early means they pick it up quicker, and benefit from it for longer. Not to mention, it gives you more time to enjoy a common pastime with your child.

More than a skill

Once the skill is acquired, golf is a game for life. But skills aside, golf also brings friendship, belonging, fun and positive social experiences.

When coaching children between 6 and 9 years old, our focus is on fun and physical literacy. In this age group, children should be taking part in a wide variety of physical activities.

Get your children into golf

If you have a child or grandchild, let's get them into golf while it's easier to learn and get them started on the journey of a lifetime.

WRONG.

Your playing partners might look at your rough lie and assume you'll be dropping shots. But they don't know what you can do with the Cleveland RTX 6 ZipCore in your hands.

The missing link

Give your ball-striking more kick!

To give your ball-striking extra kick, you need to make sure your clubs' kick-points are ideally placed to propel your ball and game further.

Kick-point location influences ball-flight

While flex is the ability of your shaft to bend under the force of a golf swing, kick-point is the part of the shaft that bends the most under the force exerted.

The location of the kick-point (towards the grip, the centre of the shaft or the head of the club) influences the trajectory of your ball off the face. A low kick-point translates to a high-launch while a high kick-point produces shots which launch lower.

High means heavy

But higher kick-points mean heavier shafts and lower kick-points lighter shafts, so it's important that your kick-point location complements your clubhead speed.

If we spend some time on a launch monitor we can gauge through your launch angle numbers what adjustments we need to make to your kick-points in order to help you fly it further down the fairway, hold more greens on approach shots and lower your scores!
